An Appeal To UN World Summit Of The Heads Of National Governments

Submitted Through UN Secretary-General

On The Question Of Responding To The Challenge Of Global Warming Or Climate Change

Hon'ble Secretary General
United Nations Organisation, New York.

Dear Sir,

The enclosed Appeal on the Bali (Indonesia) 2007-UN World Summit On Global Warming Or Climate Change is being sent to you for your kind perusal. The central idea of this Appeal emphasises that the human community is facing the most threatening life or death challenge of climate change in its history. The basic cause of this crisis, in our view, rests with the prevailing unjust and irrational corporate social system, while the immediate one lies in its anti-environment and anti-human corporate policies—with the sociological reason residing in Adam Smith's irrational economic principle that "man is selfish by nature"—a proposition contrary to the reality of man's bio-social character. A realistic answer to this crisis, in our view, can only come from a Nature--Human Centric agenda. Your goodself is requested that a copy of the enclosed Appeal be kindly provided to each Hon'ble Head Of The Govt for his study and necessary disposal.

With highest regards and best wishes and thanking you in anticipation. Please acknowledge.

Yours Truly,

Editor, Nature-Human Centric Viewpoint
